To Whom it May Concern

Dear Sir/Madam

We have been working with Training 4 Careers now for about 6 months; they have always been very professional and helpful in all aspects of our business partnership. The knowledge in their area of expertise is very impressive and the support they have given in relation to this has helped us have a good fundamental understanding which we can build on.

They are always looking at opportunities which will allow growth in the business and have identified various areas within the deliverables which can be developed to enhance our approach.

With T4C's support and the change in our approach has also allowed us to review opportunities which we have not been successful in and has reignited those projects with the enriched delivery offering.

T4C have integrated well with the team here at Wingman and the methodology they have used in aligning their skills with our business needs has delivered at each phase of the program, we are encouraged by the progress we have made over the time working with T4C and are looking forward to this continued positive relationship.

Kind regards
